Plummer Dismissal Is Affirmed

The dismissal of Gordon S. Plummer as chairman of the art department of Murray State University was affirmed Friday by the Sixth U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Plummer, who headed the department from 1971 through June 30, 1974, contended he had the right of tenure because of a letter he received from a dean stating that unless he was found to be in violation of university rules he "would be considered for immediate tenure as a faculty member."

The appellate court rejected the argument saying that in fact, Plummer had never actually achieved tenure.

"Murray State University has a well defined tenure system for which Plummer never qualified," the appellate court said in upholding the lower court decision.

Plummer was notified after the third year that his contract would not be renewed for a fourth year, according to the records of the Board of Regents of the university.

UP WITH PEOPLE — The "Up With People" concert will be held tomorrow night at the Murray State University Fieldhouse. Sponsored by the Murray Student Activities Council, the concert is set for eight p. m. During the past year, the five touring casts of Up With People have been seen by over one million people by 575 communities across the United States and abroad. The show is an entertaining two hours of music and dancing which includes a broad range of contemporary and traditional material backed by an instrumental section of guitars, percussion, piano and brass.

Stuart To Again Direct Workshop

Kentucky author and poet Jesse Stuart, whose work has earned him recognition around the world, will be back on the campus of Murray State University again this summer to direct the seventh Jesse Stuart Creative Writing Workshop.

Scheduled July 11-29, the three-week workshop will again include studies of five writing forms — short story, novel, poetry, articles, and writing for children. An anthology of outstanding student work is published by the university from each workshop.

Initiated in 1969, the workshop is designed to foster and encourage creative writing by affording students a close working relationship with established professional writers. Stuart will be joined by a faculty of five highly successful writers.

In addition to Stuart, who will teach the short story, other members of the faculty and courses they will teach are: Mrs. Harriette Simpson Arnow of Ann Arbor, Mich., the novel; Lee Pennington of Louisville, poetry; Dr. L. J. Horton of Murray, articles; and Alvin Tresselt and Blossom Budney (Mrs. Tresselt) of West Redding, Conn., writing for children.

Stuart, a prolific writer whose work ranges from poetry to novels, has been involved in many creative writing workshops. The Greenup County writer's works, from scribbled notes to finished books, are contained in the three-room Jesse Stuart Suite of the Murray State library.

Pennington, an associate professor of English at Jefferson Community College in Louisville, has taught in each of the previous workshops. His writing career includes publication of hundreds of poems in several magazines, several short stories, three plays, almost 100 magazine articles, and thousands of newspaper articles.

Mrs. Arnow, a native Kentuckian, is best known for her novels, short stories, and non-fiction books. Her novels include "Hunger for Memory," a 1949 best seller and Fiction Book Club selection, "Mountain Path," "The Dollmaker," and her latest, "The Kentucky Trace."

Horton, professor emeritus of journalism at Murray State, spent more than 45 years teaching journalism at Murray State and Ohio University. He is widely known for his magazine and newspaper feature articles and for the high honors attained by several of his former students. Horton has been on the workshop faculty each year.

Tresselt is the author of 53 children's books and one of the most recognized writers of children's literature in the country. Many of his books have won high honors. His wife is an award-winning writer of children's books. She is on the adjunct English faculty at Western Connecticut State College.

Serving as the workshop coordinator is Martha Guier, director of placement at Murray State.

Students may enroll in any one of the five courses for three semester hours of graduate or undergraduate credit or for non-credit. Students who have paid the fees for one course may audit any of the other four courses without additional charge.

Additional workshop information may be obtained by contacting Miss Martha Guier, Coordinator, Jesse Stuart Creative Writing Workshop, Murray State University, Murray, Ky., 42071, (502) 762-3735.

Wet-Dry Voting Is Postponed

The wet-dry referendum planned for this spring has been postponed until fall so that wet supporters can solidify their strength, according to Rick Lamkin, chairman of the Murray Local Option Committee.

The wet supporters have been working slowly and concentrating on registering Murray State University students, who make up the majority of their backers, he said.

The committee, the MSU College Republicans, Democrats and the Calloway County Democratic party are sponsoring a voter registration drive in the lobby of the MSU Student Center Monday and Tuesday in preparation for the referendum, Lamkin said.

The wet supporters have the number of signatures required for a petition that is required by a Kentucky statute before a referendum can be held, he added.

'Rainmaker' To Be At MSU Friday

Actors Theatre of Louisville, the state theatre of Kentucky, will present the popular comedy, "The Rainmaker," at Murray State University on Friday evening, April 15, as part of its spring tour of cities throughout Kentucky.

The curtain will go up at 8 p. m. in the University Theatre of the Price Doyle Fine Arts Center for the production co-sponsored by the Student Government Association and University Theatre.

From October through May, Actors Theatre plays to about 250,000 at its home base in Louisville and on its annual spring tour.

Its production of "The Rainmaker" will be performed by a corps of the professional resident acting company, complete with imaginative settings and costumes.

The plot surrounds a Western farming family, which is besieged by a devastating drought and a smooth-talking, charming visionary named Bill Starbuck who promises to bring rain in exchange for a price.

Murray State students with identification cards and people with University Theatre season tickets will be admitted at no charge. Tickets to the general public will go on sale at $2.50 each at the door at 7 p. m. prior to the show.

Fiscal Court To Meet On Tuesday

The Calloway County Fiscal Court will meet in regular session on Tuesday, April 12, at nine a. m.

The meeting will be held in the office of County Judge Robert O. Miller.

By M. C. Garrett

Asleep in an upstairs apartment in Williamson, W. Va., last Tuesday, Dr. Charles H. Tolley of Murray was awakened at 6 a. m. by a tapping at the window.

Looking out, he saw a man in a boat offering to take him and Ron Kupcinski, a former student of his and with whom he was visiting, to safety as the rampaging Tug Fork of the Big Sandy River swept through the town.

Below on the street, Tolley's clothes, briefcase and the 1975 state-owned station wagon in which he was traveling was under 12 feet of muddy water.

"Outfitted in borrowed clothing, he gratefully settled back in his favorite chair at his home Thursday night and recalled his harrowing, three-day experience in the flood-ravaged West Virginia mountain town of 5,300.

Only hours before he had watched as many as 17 homes, a railway car, mobile homes and automobiles tossed downstream as the record-shattering flood, caused by five inches of steady rain, and crumbling earthen dams swept through the town.

Director of the higher education program at Murray State University, Tolley was in Williamson to visit with three of his former students who were

Runoff Election To Be Held For Faculty Rep

Three faculty members at Murray State University will be on the ballot Tuesday in a runoff election to determine who will serve a three-year term on the board of regents as faculty representative.

They polled the highest number of votes among nine candidates in balloting Friday. The candidates in the runoff election and the number of votes cast for them are:

Dr. S. M. Matarazzo, professor of professional studies, 61; Dr. C. D. Wilder, associate professor of biological sciences, 51; and Dr. Harry Zonley, associate professor of chemistry, 23.

None of the three has previously held the faculty seat on the board.

A runoff became necessary under election guidelines when none of the candidates in the Friday election had a clear majority. It took the total number of votes received by the three top vote-getters to constitute a majority of the 243 faculty members who cast a ballot.

Other candidates on the ballot and the number of votes they received were:

Dr. Christine Parker, associate professor of mathematics, 22; Robert Jones, associate professor of engineering and industrial technology, 21; Philip Tibbs, professor of accounting and finance, 19; James I. Schenpp, assistant professor of speech and theatre, 17; Dr. William Presson, professor of recreation and physical education, 16; and Dr. Carroll Harrison, associate professor of speech and theatre, 13.

Faculty members of assistant professor rank or above are eligible to vote in the Tuesday runoff from 8 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. in the Registrar's Office. Eligible voters who will be away from the campus on university business on Tuesday may vote absentee on Monday.

A second runoff election, if

Easter Celebrated Around The World

Pope Paul VI wished the world "a happy Easter" in 14 languages, anarchists interrupted Mass in Paris' Notre Dame Cathedral, the Carters held a sunrise service on a Georgia back porch, and millions watched the re-enactment of the Easter story on television.

"Life is beautiful if it is new," the Pope told an estimated 200,000 people thronging St. Peter's Square and overflowing into nearby streets. "We believe that the young people of today are particularly predisposed to understand and welcome this good wish, which is full of hope and energy."

In Jerusalem, the crush of pilgrims was unusually heavy because Easter came on the same day this year for the Eastern and Western Christian churches.

While Orthodox and Roman Catholics worshiped at the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, many Protestants attended sunrise services at another traditional tomb site outside the walls of the Old City. Lutherans went to the Mount of Olives, where the New Testament says Christ ascended to heaven.

In Paris, two young French women ran up the aisle of Notre Dame shouting and trying to unfurl a banner supporting the West German Baader-Meinhof gang of anarchists during services that were being televised throughout Western Europe. Police seized them on the steps of the altar, and the service continued.

President Carter and his family held a sunrise service on his son Jack's back porch in Calhoun, Ga. Amy read from the Bible, Mrs. Carter led a prayer, and the family talked about the death and resurrection of Christ and what it meant to them. The President reported later. Then the Carters went to Sunday school and church at the First Baptist Church.

Bright sunlight brought thousands to promenade up and down New York's Fifth Avenue, closed to traffic for 19 blocks for the annual Easter Parade. Atlantic City's boardwalk also was crowded.

The biggest Easter audience was in the homes of America Sunday night as millions watched the concluding half of Franco Zeffirelli's 6½-hour movie "Jesus of Nazareth." Audience figures were not yet available, but based on ratings of the first half April 3, NBC predicted a total audience of 90 million.

The officially atheistic Soviet government announced that Easter services were held "in all the temples and prayer houses of this country's cities and villages." In Moscow, special buses took people to the cemeteries to clean family graves and leave Easter pastries and eggs.

But in apparent competition with midnight church services, the government television service presented a late variety show featuring Liza either teaching or interning at Southern West Virginia Community College, which is located there.

Members of the Murray Civitan Club voted Thursday to provide another two-hundred dollars in support of the Murray Middle School Special Olympics Basketball Team. Here, Wayne Williams of the local Civitan club presents a check for $200.00 to Charles Caldwell, a member of the basketball team. This team and its sponsors will leave Murray on April 14 for Michigan City, Ind., for their next round of tournament play. Elbert Thomason, president of the group is justified in terms of helping give them additional life experiences and hopefully improve their opportunities for being useful citizens of our community.

Accompanied by Cathy Cole, who is serving an internship as an assistant to the director of community college studies with the Kentucky Council on Public Higher Education, he had driven to Williamson from Frankfort Monday only to find the river swollen and rising rapidly.

In addition to Kupcinski, who teaches business at the community college there, three other Murray graduates are on its faculty. Dan Meadow teaches English and guidance counseling. His wife, Cindy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Koenen of Murray, teaches nursing, and Becky Hogancamp, daughter of Murray State Vice President and Mrs. Thomas B. Hogancamp, is a higher education intern at the school.

Only Kupcinski's second-floor apartment was in the flooded area, and the water came within six inches of getting into it as the river crested at 57 feet, 15 feet above flood stage.

"By midnight Monday it hadn't yet reached the top of the flood wall," Tolley said, "although the prediction was that it might go as much as two feet over it. As a precautionary measure

Ron and I moved our cars to a spot where the natives assured us water had never been before.

It was between 5 and 6 a. m. Tuesday that the water came up so swiftly, apparently as dams gave way, inundating everything as a big wall of it came down from upstream. Our station wagon as well as Ron's car, that of his roommate's and about 20 belonging to neighbors were covered.

Damage to the university vehicle has not yet been determined, he said, as it will be several days before it can be retrieved.

Tolley and Miss Cole were flown back to Frankfort Thursday in a private plane. "I was lucky enough after that," he said, "to find a state plane bringing a group of Department of Transportation people to Kentucky Dam Village for a meeting. They had one seat left on the plane, and let me have it."

During his brief stop-over in Frankfort, Tolley was given a complete change of clothes by Dr. Carl Shroat, formerly of Murray and whose wife, Jackie, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Gardner of Murray.

"Although water filled the first floors of every building on the community college campus and many of the people there had lost their homes, and automobiles, its administrators, faculty and students were more concerned for the welfare of others in the community than with their own," Tolley noted.

"Cindy and the other nurses were working tirelessly at the two hospitals, which were beyond reach of the water. Teachers and students were helping evacuate people from their homes and in the salvaging of personal belongings, while still others were helping in setting up refugee centers in churches."

With the temperature dipping to 22 degrees Tuesday night, their biggest problem was keeping warm, he said, the town being without gas or electric service. "We had plenty of covers, though, and divided among us to make the best of the situation," he said. Candles were at a premium.

Miss Hogancamp, who is involved in development of English and reading programs as an intern at the college and with whom Miss Cole was visiting, had kept a supply of drinking water available last winter during the severely cold weather. Fortunately, she still had enough on hand to tide them over until the National Guard began bringing in water, food, Pampers and other supplies as soon as the flood waters began to recede by noon Wednesday.

It's not often a team finishes last and the coach is pleased about the performance. But such was the case Saturday as Murray State placed fourth in a quadrangular meet at Stewart Stadium. See the story in today's sports section.

The question has arisen as to whether federal income tax casualty loss deductions will cover winter freeze loss of trees and shrubs. The details are on Page Four, in today's Farm Section.

Rev. Shepard Speaker For Murray Methodist Women

The First United Methodist Church Women met Tuesday, April 5, at ten a.m. in the Hale Chapel with the president, Mrs. Milton Jones, presiding. Mrs. Buron Jeffrey introduced the speaker for the program, the Rev. Steve Shepard, pastor of the Dexter-Hardin, Palestine, and Olive United Methodist Churches. Rev. Shepard gave a very inspirational talk — on "Missions" saying "missions is the church." Miss Roberta Whitnah read the minutes and took the circle count with the Mattie Bell Hays Circle having the largest number of members present. Mrs. James Byrn from the Alice Waters Circle gave a very impressive devotion on "The Beauty of Spring." The Executive Board met at nine a.m. followed by coffee at 9:30 a.m. in the social hall with the Faith Doran Circle as hostesses.

Mayfield Home Scene Of New Concord Meeting

The home of Mrs. I. B. Mayfield was the scene of the March meeting of the New Concord Homemakers Club with Mrs. Charlie Stubbelfield, president, presiding, and Mrs. Effie Edwards giving the secretary's report. Mrs. Darrell Mitchell gave the devotion on "The Art of Contentment." Members answered the roll call with their favorite spring flowers. The major lesson on "Italian Cooking" was presented by Mrs. Rose Rice. The minor lesson on "Spring Fashions" was given by Mrs. Curtice Cook. "Landscape From Art" was given by Mrs. Ed Davis.

Mrs. Rainey Lovins directed the recreational period. The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Edwards and Mrs. Buford French, Jr., served refreshments of nabisco torte, cheese olive dainties, mints, nuts, coffee, and Cokes to fourteen members and two visitors. Mrs. French and Mrs. Virginia Burnham, the latter becoming new members. The club will meet April 13 at one p.m. at the home of Mrs. John Livesay.

Tell Unlikely Suitor He's Out of Bounds

DEAR ABBY: I am a 52-year-old widow who is being pestered by a bachelor in whom I have no interest. But HE is interested in ME. I work from 8 to 5, and when I come home I find him putting around in my garden, or sweeping my garage or driveway. I told him I am not interested in marriage, sex, love or a live-in companion. He said HE was. I don't want to have him arrested for trespassing on my property or harassing me, because I don't think he's dangerous. How can I get this man to leave me alone without going to the law?

DEAR NOT: TELL him you will have him arrested if he doesn't stay off your property and quit bothering you. And if that doesn't work, you may have to call the police. He may not be dangerous, but you have a right to be left alone.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I gave our married son (who lives near us) a key to our home so he can come here to check up on things when we're out of town. Well, it seems that while we're away, he and his wife come in and borrow whatever they want. We don't even know what they've borrowed until we look for something and can't find it. (I refer to serving trays, linen, card tables, garden tools and bottles from our bar!) We've always been on good terms with our children and want to stay that way, but we think they have their nerve helping themselves to our things and not returning them. Is there any way we can get our key back and put a stop to this without demanding it and hurting their feelings?

DEAR PARENTS: What's wrong with the direct approach? Simply ask them to return: [a] everything they've borrowed; [b] the key. And don't be bashful about telling them why.

DEAR ABBY: As a professional musician, I know I speak for all pianists and organists who have performed at parties and have wanted to tell the guests the following: Please do not: 1. Sit on the bench with me and engage me in conversation. It makes it impossible for me to perform. 2. Place drinks on the organ or piano. (I've had whole drinks fall on the keyboard and saturate the organ.) 3. Decide that you can play, too, and then proceed to fiddle with the keys while I am playing. 4. Sing loudly into my ear. Abby, you would be doing all musicians a tremendous favor if you'd publish this.

R.G.R., THIBODAUX, LA.

DEAR R.G.R.: Consider it done. CONFIDENTIAL TO "NEW READER" IN BEND, OREGON: You've gone from bed to worse. Bend is a very small town for people with big mouths. Take my advice and move to Portland.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

FOR TUESDAY, APRIL 12, 1977

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth sign.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20) ♈
Especially favored under day's somewhat unusual but, on the whole, friendly aspects: secretarial and clerical work; mathematics, artistry and science.
TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21) ♉
Stretch a point where it will pay off later. A vote of confidence is sometimes necessary to secure cooperation. Maintain a steady hand and a discerning eye.
GEMINI (May 22 to June 21) ♊
Meet competition — but in a subtle manner. Advancement notable in written matters, advertising, promotion, educational pursuits.
CANCER (June 22 to July 23) ♋
Some earnings and credits may be less than expected, but the general outlook is excellent for benefits through sustained effort over a period of time.
LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23) ♌
Mixed planetary influences give a total picture of alternating apathy, readiness, indecision, enthusiasm. Firm up!

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23) ♍
You may experience a sense of frustration, along with boredom and fretfulness. Your keen mind and innate good sense should help you counteract.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) ♎
Be cautious in dealing with associates. Some may urge you to make certain commitments against your better judgment.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) ♐
Don't let yourself be pressured.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22) ♏
Generally, a day for action, but be careful not to run out of bounds. On the other hand, delaying tactics could also be unwise. Judge carefully.

SAITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) ♐
You should do especially well in projects which require careful organization, clever management. Don't let opposition dissuade you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) ♑
If careful to guard against impulsive acts and words, the day should be generally smooth. A fine period for making travel plans.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) ♒
Your active mind needs expression now. Direct it with forethought, discernment. Give thought to future needs as well as current projects. Changes may be required.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) ♓
You can choose activities from several areas now, but stay within reasonable boundaries. Stellar influences especially stimulate your creative leanings.

YOU BORN TODAY are intellectually inclined and have been endowed with a brilliant eloquence which could serve you well in the fields of law, statesmanship, literature or the theater. You are optimistic and self-confident — often TOO hopeful and speculative. Try to realize reasonable limitations. You are an excellent promoter and can sell anything; sometimes fail to sell yourself, however, because you are overly aggressive. Care! Birthdate of: Henry Clay, early Amer. statesman.

A senior organ recital by Matt Bryant, Charleston, Mo., at 2 p. m. and a senior recital by Ray J. Beard, trombone, Paducah, at 3:30 p. m. will be held in the Farrell Recital Hall of the Price Doyle Fine Arts Center.

Agree Or Not

Hellard To Take Over LRC April 16

By S. C. Van Curon

VAN CURON

FRANKFORT — Victor Hellard, attorney and former state representative, will become director of the Legislative Research Commission April 16.

He will succeed Philip Conn who has been with LRC for five years, most of it as assistant director or director.

Conn hasn't announced where he is going, but the word around the Capitol is that he is going to Morehead State University.

Conn caused an uproar among LRC personnel last summer when he made some unfounded accusations as a blanket charge against all feminine personnel in LRC. A legislative committee made an investigation but cleared Conn of any wrongdoing although morale dropped in the organization.

The legislators, who serve as LRC directors, said at the time that they needed Conn for the extraordinary session last December. The word got out then that Conn would be leaving LRC when another position could be found for him.

Hellard, 37, is a graduate of the Eastern Kentucky University and the University of Kentucky Law School. He served in the House during the 1972 and 1974 sessions and was special counsel to the House leadership in the 1976 session and the special session in December. He quit the legislature to resume his private law practice in Versailles. He had also done some special work for LRC.

The Legislative Research Commission was created by special legislation several years ago as a research and working arm for the legislature.

Among its chief duties are drafting legislation, research for legislation, compiling the laws after the session is over, and furnishing personnel for the interim committee meetings that study legislation or prospective legislation.

It now employs more than 100 persons. It also has the responsibility for printing and distributing the legislative register, which includes all the regulations that implement the state laws. LRC also compiles and prints all the bills that go through the legislature, and prints the Legislative Record during legislative sessions.

This unit of government has a large print shop in the basement of the Capitol that also prints all the bills being considered by the legislature when it is in session.

It also does the research and compiles research reports of assignments given it by the legislature. There are many other duties performed by this arm of the legislature, and is a big source of information for public officials throughout the state.

All of Kentucky's statutes are on computer and can be called up by the touch of a button. This is especially valuable when bill drafting time comes, because most new legislation is no more than changes in present law in most cases.

Hellard will bring to his new job a familiarity with legislation and the duties of legislators from his past experience as a legislator. He also brings more maturity to the post the younger Conn had.

Conn became LRC director when Jackson White joined the cabinet of Gov. Julian Carroll, or shortly before Gov. Ford left office to go to the U.S. Senate.

Conn has a PhD degree, but was lacking in governmental experience when he came to the LRC post as assistant director under White. He was a driver for Gov. Julian Carroll during his race for lieutenant governor. He is also interested in the academic field and at one time it was rumored about two years ago that he was going to Eastern State University at Richmond, but now the word is he is going to Morehead although he hasn't officially announced where his new post will be.

Stan Kenton, who will be in concert at MSU's Lovett Auditorium at 8 p. m. Tuesday, has reiterated his dislike for current country music, particularly the "Nashville Sound."

Kenton elaborated on his thoughts on the Nashville sound in a news article in Sunday's Nashville Tennessean.

"I think the music that came out of the Tennessee hills, with banjos and mandolins and fiddles, was a genuine, sincere form of music," Kenton said in the interview. "But the stuff that Nashville is producing now seems contrived and commercial. It appeals to the lowest common denominator of the masses. It talks about the ugliest, weakest and most simplistic of human emotions like self-pity, despair and hopelessness."

Kenton and his orchestra was in Nashville to perform at the Tennessee Jazz Festival at Vanderbilt University Sunday.

Letter To The Editor

Another View On The Apple

Dear Editor:

This is another view of what took place at the Big Apple on March 31, 1977. While the "innocent" young people were having their little party at the Big Apple, complete with beer, wet T shirts, etc., and were throwing beer cans, and whatever else could be pulled loose, I'd like for you to picture two elderly people, both just recovering from near fatal attacks and long stays in the hospital, scared nearly out of their wits by crowded cars, noise, running people and the knowledge that whatever happened, they were indeed at a loss to know what would happen or what they could do about it.

I would say that it is fortunate that one or both of them were not victims of heart attacks. These elderly people are my Daddy and Stepmother who live only a few hundred feet down the road from where all of this stupid "fun and games" went on.

Personally, I'd like very much to see the place closed for good.

Thank you for hearing our side.
Yours truly,
Margaret Scarbrough

Today In History

By the Associated Press

Today is Monday, April 11, the 101st day of 1977. There are 264 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1814, Napoleon Bonaparte abdicated as Emperor of France.

On this date:
In 1689, William and Mary were crowned king and queen of England.

In 1713, Spain ceded Gibraltar to England.

In 1899, the Philippine islands were transferred from Spain to the United States.

In 1921, a telephone line between the United States and Cuba was opened by President Warren Harding.

In 1951, President Harry Truman relieved General Douglas MacArthur of his command in the Far East.

In 1961, France said it would no longer contribute men or money to United Nations military enterprises.

Ten years ago: President Lyndon Johnson and Latin American presidents opened a conference in Punta del Este, Uruguay.

Five years ago: The death toll was put at more than 4,000 in an earthquake in southern Iran.

One year ago: Exploration for oil off the New England coast began.

Today's birthday: Mrs. Ethel Kennedy is 49 years old.

Thought for today: To speak kindly does not hurt the tongue — a French proverb.

HEARTLINE

HEARTLINE is a service for senior citizens of all ages. Its purpose is to answer questions and solve problems — fast. If you have a question or a problem not answered in these columns, write HEARTLINE, 114 E. Dayton St., West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. Senior citizens will receive prompt replies, but you must include a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The most useful replies will be printed in this column.

HEARTLINE: An insurance agent came to my home last week and explained how his company's Medicare supplement policy worked. It sounded like a good program and he seemed like a nice, clean-cut young man. I was very interested in his policy but I told him that I wanted to talk to over with my son and wife for awhile, and I asked him to come back in a couple weeks. He then told me that if I wanted it I would have to take it right then because the enrollment period would be over that day.

I don't like to be rushed, especially when the policy would cost $200 for me and another $200 for my wife. I told him to forget the whole thing. Do these companies have an enrollment period or was this a quick-sell gimmick? S.T.

ANSWER: Some companies do have enrollment periods for certain areas. The reason for an enrollment period is simple. Some agents cover a large area, sometimes an entire state. These agents operate on a time table. It is possible that the agent you talked to would have been 200 miles away two weeks from the day he saw you, and certainly would not want to travel a great distance for one potential sell.

There are also cases where the agent is local, remains local all the time and uses this as a quick-sell method.

Heartline has developed a booklet called "Heartline's Guide to Health Insurance" which is unconditionally guaranteed. There is a policy check list in this publication that will be of great value to you in checking your current policies or policies that you may buy in the future.

To order, send $1.50 to "Heartline's Guide to Health Insurance," P.O. Box 4994, Des Moines, Iowa 50306. Allow six weeks for delivery.

HEARTLINE: I am divorced. Am I entitled to any survivor benefits based on the federal civilian service of my deceased husband? He worked for the federal government for 40 years. We were married 23 years before our divorce. D.T.

ANSWER: No. Since you are divorced, you would not be entitled to any civil service benefits, unless your former husband designated you for a lump sum payment of the deductions to his credit in the retirement fund upon his death.

The only way you could determine whether or not he did so would be to inquire in writing to the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D.C. Identify your late husband by name, date of birth, claim number, last agency where employed and dates of such employment.

HEARTLINE: My husband and I are in our early 50s. My husband is disabled and he draws Social Security disability and Supplemental Security Income payments. We have been thinking of taking a foster child into our home. If we do take a foster child, will the payments we receive for providing foster care affect our SSI payments?

ANSWER: No. The money received by you for the care of a foster child is not counted as income in regards to Supplemental Security Income payments.

Let's Stay Well

Diabetic Tendency Inherited

By F.J.L. Blasngame, M.D.

Blasngame

Q: Mrs. B.V. writes that she is puzzled by the fact that she "suddenly became a diabetic." She has always understood that this disease is inherited, but she cannot trace it back to anybody in her family. She wonders how this could be.

A: It is not unusual for a person to discover "suddenly" that he or she is a diabetic. The tendency for you to be one has existed for years prior to the appearance of the disease.

It has been well established that diabetes mellitus is an inherited disease. Your relatives could have been carriers of diabetes without showing any manifestations, signs or symptoms of it, but could have passed the characteristics on to their children. They may have acted as carriers and may not have become diabetics, but could again have passed the tendency to their children, and their children may show up with diabetes.

Also, in previous times, a person could have diabetes and not know it. The disease may not have been diagnosed and the diabetic condition may not have been accurately identified.

Hives and Chills

Q: Mr. A.R. writes that he is very fond of hot chili con carne. He tolerates it well as far as his digestion is concerned. Occasionally, however, he is troubled a few hours after eating chili by itching spots on his hands, feet and neck. He thinks the itching is due to hives and wonders why he is troubled sometimes, but not always. What could be the cause?

A: Chili con carne (with meat) is a complicated food, and the recipes for making it are highly variable. You could be having attacks of hives on some occasions and not on others in part because of the amount of chili you consume. The larger the amount, the more likely an allergic reaction is if you are sensitive to one or more ingredients. Also, a case of hives is more probable if you are fatigued when eating the chili. Another way to test your problem is to eat a sizable portion of one of the ingredients in chili separately with other foods. For example, some people are sensitive to garlic. You could try it in a large amount in a salad and see if you develop the hives.

If you make chili at home, try omitting a particular ingredient in several of your "batches," eating freely to see if the hives come on later.

I know of no effective medicine you can take to prevent having occasional bouts of hives when you eat something to which you are allergic.

FARM REVIEW & FORECAST

Casualty Loss And Freeze Loss In Trees And Shrubs

The question has arisen as to whether federal income tax casualty loss deductions will cover winter freeze loss of trees and shrubs — either among nurserymen, home gardeners or commercial orchards.

The scope of the "kill toll" in Kentucky as the result of the extraordinary — cold — winter conditions the early part of this year is still to be fully documented, Robert McNiel, UK extension horticulturist, observed.

He said legal counsel for the American Association of Nurserymen says the Internal Revenue Service does recognize that plant damage caused by freezing conditions can be a deductible casualty loss — but, only in cases where the freeze is unusual.

There is another facet, however, McNiel noted. The amount of allowable deduction differs depending on whether the damage property is inventory property — as in the case of a nursery firm — or whether it is "customer property" — or privately owned. In the case of "customer property," the horticulturist noted, there is a further specification — whether the property was, or is sued in a business, or if it represents landscaping of a home or other non-business property.

Inventory losses suffered by nurserymen that are not covered by insurance do not generate a casualty loss deduction because they will automatically result in a greater deduction for cost of goods sold, McNiel said. Where covered by insurance, inventory losses may either be reflected in cost of goods sold based on closing inventory, with inclusion of the insurance recovery as gross income — or alternatively, the taxpayer may ignore the insurance recovery and remove the loss from the cost of goods sold.

A tax loss may be claimed on winter damaged landscaping on business premises, it was explained, but the loss must be based on the "before" and "after" value of the damaged plants and may not exceed the adjusted basis — that is, the depreciated cost, according to the interpretation of the IRS laws. The effect of the loss on the value of the entire property is not considered.

As for the landscaping on non-business property — or residential property — McNiel said the legal question is the amount of loss reflected in the "before" and "after" value of the entire premises. However, as a practical matter, the IRS recognizes a replacement cost invoice or estimate as reasonable evidence of the loss in value of the property, unless there is reason to believe that restoration of the particular plants is not necessary, or would enhance the value of the property above its pre-casualty value.

McNiel said ordinarily, no question arises when plants are small enough to be replanted, but difficult questions arise in the case of damage to trees and other specimens which are too large to replace with plants of a similar size, but since it will not be possible to obtain evidence of replacement costs.

"In this case, the IRS takes the position that shade tree appraisal methods may not be used," McNiel said, "and that it is necessary to obtain a 'before' and 'after' appraisal of the entire property by an expert real estate appraiser."

As for loss caused by drought, McNiel said many persons in the west are concerned with questions about that condition, but that generally the IRS takes the position that damage caused by drought cannot be a deductible casualty loss, since it does not occur suddenly.

Even so, he commented, some courts have allowed such deductions and advised that legal counsel should be obtained on allowability of drought damage losses.

Official Explains Target Prices; Loan Levels

The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) recently announced target prices of $2.47 for wheat, $1.70 for corn, $1.62 for sorghum, $1.39 for barley, and 47.8 cents per pound for upland cotton. The 1977 loan levels for these commodities will be announced later.

Acting ASCS administrator Victor A. Senechal explained the concept of target prices and government loans.

"In the event that market prices recede because of world and domestic supply situations, target prices guarantee farmers a certain level for feed grain, wheat and upland cotton without affecting the competitive price level of these commodities in world markets," Senechal said.

"For example, if the price received by farmers for the particular crop during the marketing year should average out to be less than the target price, a direct payment equal to the difference between the target price and the market price would be made to the farmer. Under the Agriculture and Consumer Protection Act of 1973, farmers are guaranteed this price. Fortunately, during the past three years, market prices have been above these levels. So we have not had to pay deficiency payments," Senechal said.

"We have had to use target prices substantially for the disaster payment program, however," he added.

If a farmer is prevented from planting one of these commodities, or if his harvest or production is much less than normal, legislation requires that he receive a payment based on one-third of the target price which is announced for that particular crop year. This amount is multiplied by the farmer's production deficiency.

"In this instance, target prices have been very important during the last three years, and will likely be again in 1977," he said.

Senechal said that loan levels are rates at which farmers can borrow money from the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) when the market price is down.

"The farmer retains title to his crop," he said, "and if the market price goes up, the farmer can pay off the loan to CCC and redeem his crop."

Damaged Crops May Qualify For Payments

Don't graze, hay or plow under your damaged crop, due to a disaster, David E. Riley, Jr. advises farmers. At least not until you check with the local ASCS office.

"Farmers should notify us before destroying evidence of damaged crops, Riley said, "so we can appraise the crop." An ASCS appraiser will visit the farm to determine the extent of the loss.

Producers may receive payments if a disaster destroys their crops and they abandon acreage or devote it to another use. They may also qualify for disaster payments if they carry damaged acres through to harvest but reap substantially less than a normal crop.

The disaster program for wheat, feed grains and cotton is authorized by the Agriculture and Consumer Protection Act of 1973; coverage under this Act extends only to planted acreage up to the historical allotment on each farm.

Beef Herd Testing Should Be Started

Now is the logical time for beef cattle producers to start keeping performance records on their herds, is the advice of RusseH BreDahl, UK extension beef cattle specialist.

Since the calving season has already begun and the breeding season is in the immediate future, there is no better time to begin the herd performance testing operations.

"The actual place to begin is the identification of all females and bulls in the breeding herd," BreDahl said, advising the use of easily visible identification that can be read from a distance, noting brands or large plastic ear tags work well.

At the time a calf is born, the birth date, sex and identification number of the calf, as well as the identification of the sire and dam of the calf should be recorded. "You may also want to record the birth weight and degree of difficulty associated with each birth," the specialist stated, "emphasizing that an identification number be placed on the calf soon after birth."

During the breeding season, the producer should record the identification of each cow exposed to the bull in single-sire pasture breeding, or if hand mating is practiced, in order to make identification of the sire and dam of each calf, BreDahl said. If more than one bull is used in a breeding pasture, identification of the sire will be virtually impossible, unless the bulls are of different breeds, he added.

"A bit of observation and note taking during the breeding season can pay big dividends, the specialist continued. "Infertile or sub-fertile bulls can be spotted in time to replace such bulls if votes of breeding dates are recorded and studied."

In the performance testing program, calves should be weighed when they average about 205 days of age, the weights to be used to calculate the 205-day adjusted weight of the calf. This practice is described as an excellent measurement of the calf's growth rate before weaning. Assuming all calves are treated and handled equally, a third of the total variation in the 205 day adjusted weights among calves is due to heredity and can be transmitted to future generations, BreDahl said.

When the calves are weighed at the 205-day point, records should be made of the calf's weight, its identification, sex and weighing date. Four optional record notations were termed as very helpful, but not necessary — a weaning conformation score, a condition or fatness score, a frame score and a structural soundness score. Such records will provide most of the information needed to select replacement heifers for the breeding herd.

The specialist also noted that weaning time provides an excellent opportunity to examine the cows to determine which are open. That allows the open cows to be exposed for breeding in the fall, if two calving seasons are practiced on the farm — or allows for the cows to be sold if it is felt they should be culled from the herd.

In the case of bull calves, the 205-day adjusted weights gives the seedstock producer the opportunity to determine which bull calves to keep for further development and feeding. BreDahl said the yearling weight of a bull — or heifer — is a more accurate indication of the growth rate the animal will transmit to its offspring, than is its weaning weight.

Any animals selected for further feeding should be weighed again after a feeding period of 180 days. Again, the information recorded should include the final feedlot weight, the weighing date and the calf identification and sex. Optional records at this time include the yearling type, condition score, frame score and soundness score.

Birth and weaning records should be maintained on all calves that are born alive and all that survive to weaning, BreDahl pointed out. He recommended that selection of calves to be marketed as feeder calves should be made at weaning time. No further data would be needed on such calves, since ordinarily, feeder calf buyers do not collect yearling weights on any cattle.

However, the specialist noted that lifetime production records should be kept on all cows and bulls in the herd of the cow and calf operations — such records, along with growth rate records on each animal is a must to select the best breeding stock.

Weaning and yearling weights in the records of a producer can be adjusted to remove known sources of non-genetic variation due to differences in age of the calves when weighed, age of the mother cow and sex of the calf.

BreDahl said adjustments in the weight factors can be figured under the University of Kentucky's Beef Herd Improvement Program, or by breed association representatives, each association having similar performance testing programs.

BreDahl emphasized the economic value of a performance testing program and pointed out that the individual county agricultural extension agents have information available in regard to such a program if the producer desires additional facts and data.

FFA Field Day Set

The University of Kentucky College of Agriculture will host some 800 members of Future Farmers of America chapters from across the state at the sixth annual FFA Field Day on Friday, April 29.

The day gives the young agricultural students from Kentucky's high schools an opportunity to visit the UK campus and to see the facilities of the college is doing to promote agriculture and agri-business, according to Mike Richey, student placement officer for the college.

He said 16 different contests related to the FFA program will be conducted during the day to help prepare the FFA members of county, regional and state fair competition. He emphasized, however, the purpose is not designed solely for the contest competition, but also as an educational experience for these young people who are eyeing agriculture and related ventures as potential careers.

Richey said approximately 20 members of the college's faculty and 60 ag students will assist in the conducting of the various contests. The competition events will be conducted at points on the campus and at the University's experimental farms. Livestock holding pens for the judging competition, plus other equipment necessary in the staging of the FFA Field Day operations, will be set up under the supervision of George Pendergrass, director of management operations for the College of Agriculture.

The field day activities will begin at 9 a. m. with all Kentucky FFA members being invited to attend, Richey said.

Gardening Tips from Extension Specialists at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture

Just about everyone loves the tomato and whether one has a large acreage or a flower bed in the backyard, he can grow this popular vegetable. When staked or tied up, tomatoes require very little space and are capable of producing several pounds of fruit per plant.

According to UK garden specialists, a home or backyard gardener can expect best results when tomato plants are set out on a spot that will receive full sunlight all day. If this is not possible, plant them where they will receive the maximum sunlight for at least six or seven hours each day. Tomatoes in spots with too little sunshine produce few, if any fruit.

Tomato plants prefer a fertile, well-drained soil that is high in organic content. In soils of low to medium fertility, add 2.5 pounds of 5-10-10 fertilizer per 100 feet of row.

Transplant tomatoes in the garden after the danger of frost is over (after May 15). However, if a frost threatens after they have been set out, they can be saved from frostbite by covering over with hot caps, paper sacks, boxes, or even folded newspapers.

Tomato plants should be spaced 18 to 24 inches apart in rows at least three feet apart and when setting them out, plant them deeper than they were growing in the containers. The less the roots are disturbed when transplanting, the less the shock to the plant and the faster it will take off and grow. Pour about 1 pint of starter solution around each plant to wash the soil around the roots. Use 2 tablespoons of 5-10-10 or 5-10-5 fertilizer per gallon of water. This helps roots to develop quickly.

Black plastic or some other kind of mulch can be very beneficial in tomato production. The mulch causes the soil to warm up earlier and thus results in earlier yields. The mulch also helps control weeds, helps conserve moisture and fertilizer, and may help reduce fruit rot and blight by protecting the fruit and foliage from disease organisms splashed up from the ground during heavy rains.

Stake tomato plants after the first flower cluster is formed and place the stake on the opposite side of the stem from the flower cluster. Since all the flower clusters will usually be formed on the same side of the stem, this will keep the fruit from being jammed against the stakes.

Tie the plant to the stake with a soft string or a strip of cloth. Tie the string to the stake and then pass the string under a leaf stem to give more support.

Prune the plants to one or two main stems by pinching off the suckers that form in the leaf axils.

The UK garden specialists recommend Jet Star, Ramapo and Better Boy as the best varieties for staking or caging.

Kentuckians To Attend National 4-H Conference

Five young Kentuckians have been selected to attend National 4-H Conference in Washington, D. C., April 23-29, according to Karen Hill, UK extension 4-H program specialist.

Chosen to participate in the week-long conference concerning the development of 4-H programs throughout the nation are Richard Shackelford, 16, Allensville; Byron Farley, 16, Henderson; Julia Jacobs, 17, Brooksville; Wayne Cleary, 17, Paducah; and Rosie Lawrence, 15, Crittenden.

They will be among 350 other 4-H'ers from across the United States who will be meeting to discuss and evaluate current 4-H programs at county, state and national levels, and to propose new 4-H programs for the years ahead.

The five Kentuckians will be representing some 161,000 other 4-H'ers in the state. They were selected as conference participants on the basis of outstanding 4-H careers, according to Miss Hill.

Shackelford is a member of the Todd Teen 4-H Club and has completed eight years of 4-H work. His major 4-H projects include field crops, dairy, beef and electric. Additionally, he has been a teen leader for a 4-H electric project group in his home area and has been active in 4-H at both county and state levels.

Farley is a member of the Graham Hill 4-H Club and has participated in 4-H projects and activities for the past seven years. He attended National 4-H Congress in Chicago in 1975, representing Kentucky as the state 4-H swine project champion. He has been active on the county, area and state levels, currently serving as a member of the Kentucky 4-H Teen Council.

Miss Jacobs has been enrolled in 4-H projects and activities for the past eight years, is president of the Bracken County Senior 4-H Club and is a leader in a 4-H foods and nutrition project. She also attended National 4-H Congress in Chicago in 1975 as the state 4-H safety project champion.

Cleary, in his sixth year of 4-H projects and activities, now is a teen leader of a special skating project in McCracken County. He was Kentucky's teen leadership project champion in 1975, enabling him to also attend the National 4-H Congress that year.

Miss Lawrence has been a 4-Her since she was eight years old. She is particularly active in the 4-H bicycle and safety project, having been a teen leader in the Grant County 4-H bicycle project. She attended National 4-H Congress in Chicago in 1976 as Kentucky's safety project champion, as well as being the state's representative to the 1976 National 4-H Safety Congress, also held in Chicago. She is a member of the Grant County Teen Club.

FARM PROJECT CONTRACT — Kentucky Development Secretary William L. Short, center, prepares to sign a contract for an agriculture demonstration project between the Governor's Council on Agriculture and Murray State University. The contract calls for determination of the production and economic feasibility of growing blueberries on selected soils in Western Kentucky. Attending the signing ceremony are Dr. James Thompson, left, chairman of the MSU Department of Agriculture, and Tom Ray, Executive director of the Governor's Council on Agriculture. This is a new program designed to determine whether certain crops not presently produced can be produced profitably in Kentucky.

Operation Identification Is Coming To Kentucky Farms

By GARY HUDDLESTON
Operation Identification, a program to encourage the marking of property with identifying numbers to deter theft, is coming to Kentucky farms.

A statewide campaign by the Kentucky Office of Crime Prevention and Kentucky Farm Bureau is being kicked off at a luncheon in Lebanon April 18, signaling the start of a four-week pilot project in Marion County.

During the four-week period, local and state law enforcement officials, the county Farm Bureau and local banks and farm equipment dealers, hope to make available marking kits to mark household items and farm equipment for as many Marion County residents as possible. A key phase of the effort will be to encourage the county's estimated 1,600 farmers to mark such equipment items as tractors, implements and hand tools.

The marking, which uses individual Social Security numbers, will help police detect stolen property and enable them to return property to owners. Without the marking, it is very difficult for farmers to prove ownership of any standard item of farm equipment that might be stolen.

Other pilot counties will be selected in Eastern and Western Kentucky, according to Early Perry, Kentucky Farm Bureau safety director. Results from the pilot projects should aid him in planning Operation Identification efforts among farmers in all Kentucky counties, Perry said.

Programs to mark household items and farm equipment will be conducted simultaneously in counties if possible, Perry noted, even though appliances and personal items can be marked with pencil or electric engravers, while farm equipment marking requires heavier steel dies.

Officials say the marking program has proven effective in many cities, including Campbellsville, Owensboro and Covington in Kentucky. A high percentage of residents must take part to deter criminals, they say, or thefts are likely to continue at the same rate from houses or farms where no marking has been done.

A bill that would limit Corps of Engineers jurisdiction to navigable waterways was approved by the House of Representatives April 5, and is given a good chance for favorable action by a House-Senate conference committee.

This is the second year that farm interests have attempted to legislate a limit on Corps authority to regulate dredge and fill activities. Currently, the Corps' jurisdiction extends to all "waters of the United States," a definition which could apply even to farm drainage ditches that are dry all but a few days each year.

Two amendments were offered to weaken the jurisdictional limitation, included in the measure, but both were defeated by strong voice votes. Rep. Jim Wright, a Texas Democrat, is the author of the limiting legislation.

The strong support for the bill from House members was credited, in part, to farmers from across the country who told lawmakers of their opposition to blanket authority by the Corps over small streams and low-lying farm land.

An April 1 increase in support prices for manufacturing milk probably won't have an immediate impact on Class I prices for farmers, or retail fluid milk prices, according to Tim Mogan, general manager of Dairyman Inc., Kyana Division.

The increase, which amounted to 74 cents per hundred for milk of average milkfat content, is generally in line with his members' wishes, Mogan added. Increased advertising, especially in Southeastern states, is the answer for boosting sales of "nature's most nearly perfect food."

Mogan acknowledged that the rise in supports to 83 per cent of parity was more than many dairymen had expected.

but he said farmers have to be pleased with the move, in light of increased feed prices and uncertainty over this year's grain crop caused by dry weather.

Current milk prices remain below their level of a year ago, Mogan said. Kyana Class I price now stands at $10.54 per hundred pounds, compared to $10.90 much of last fall, and a high of $11.25 in August.

Another DI official said milk is a bargain for the consumer right now, with the price of an 8-ounce serving well below soft drinks or coffee. Only tea and powdered sweet beverages, such as Kool-Aid, are cheaper than milk, but there's no comparison nutritionally, said Al Ortego, vice president of economics.

Ortego said dairy farmers in this area have stabilized their production during the past month, and he predicted that less fluid milk will be diverted as surplus to manufacturing uses than was the case last spring.

Sales in the Southeast, the primary market area for milk produced in Kentucky, showed a 2.8 per cent increase during 1976, he noted. Continued efforts at promotion can keep this upward trend in motion, he said.

Shattering a Myth
People used to think that lung cancer was a disease for men only. Not so, the American Cancer Society reports. Because of cigarette smoking, the lung cancer death rate for women has jumped 173% since the 1950's. And the future may be grimmer because more teenage girls and young women are smoking. Increase In Tree Farm Participation

LEXINGTON, Ky. — Directors of the Kentucky Forest Industries Association have reported that more than 15,000 acres of privately-owned commercial timber land in Kentucky were brought under the protection of the American Tree Farm program last year.

James M. Clayton of Hawesville, WesCor Corp. executive and chairman of the KFIA Tree Farm Committee, said that the 223,494 acres registered as of December 31, 1976, represented a 7.4 per cent increase over the 208,177 acres recorded a year earlier.

The number of certified properties rose from 430 to 463 during the same period, despite delisting of 16 tracts with a combined area of 1131 acres. This jump represents an increase of 7.7 per cent, Clayton reported.

"Significantly," he said, "the average number of acres in each tract indicates that KFIA is succeeding in its continued effort to bring small, non-industrial holdings of commercial timber land into the American Tree Farm program."

As recently as 1969, he pointed out, the average tract included 560.8 acres; 1976 summaries reflect an average of only 482.7 acres per tract.

Properties inspected and certified for the first time last year averaged 165.1 acres in size, Clayton said.

According to KFIA statistical summaries, more than 90 per cent of Kentucky's commercial timber land — some 12 million acres — is privately controlled in holdings that average less than 100 acres in size.

Properties enrolled in the American Tree Farm program are identified by an emblematic plaque and are pledged to forestry practices that provide for recreation, food and shelter for fish and wildlife, watershed protection and the growing and harvesting of repeated timber crops.

Inspections are carried out by district officials of the state's Division of Forestry and include provision for fire and insect control as well as timber stand improvement.

A recent KFIA study indicates that timber ranks second only to tobacco in its value as a cash crop at market. Sales last year exceeded $339.5 million, the KFIA report stated.

The Kentucky Forest Industries Association represents timber growing, harvesting, production, fabricating and marketing among a selected statewide membership. These related industries — active in 103 of the state's 120 counties — employ nearly 20,000 production personnel and generate some $175 million in total payrolls on annual industry sales of $504.5 million.

Nastase Proves Point, Whips Connors Again

By The Associated Press—Ilie Nastase had something to prove — to himself, to tennis fans and to Jimmy Connors.

"I wanted to prove that I could play with him," the fiery Romanian said. "I was working for this match."

Nastase's work paid off. He proved his point by beating Connors 3-6, 7-6, 6-4, 7-5 in the $100,000 winner-take-all final of the 1977 World Championship Tennis Challenge Cup at Las Vegas.

Nastase holds a 16-6 career edge over Connors, but the American had won their two meetings earlier this year. Nastase wanted to win Sunday's match to show he still could handle his rival and friend.

The loss snapped a 13-match winning streak at Caesar's Palace for Connors, who refused to talk with newsmen.

Racer Tennis Team Loses Three Of Four

The Murray State tennis team dropped three of four matches on a weekend tour of Tennessee.

Thursday at Cookeville, Murray fell 5-4 to Tennessee Tech. Del Purcell won his number one singles match while Roger Berthiaume won at number four and Tome Lie at six. In the doubles, Purcell combined with Jeff Leeper to win at the number two doubles.

Friday at Murfreesboro, the Racers fell 7-2 to Middle Tennessee. Winning for Murray were Tom Lie in the number six singles and Del Purcell combined with Leeper to win at the number two doubles.

On Saturday, the Racers were in Clarksville and lost 6-3 to Austin Peay. Westfall and Lie won their singles matches while Purcell-Leeper again won at the number two doubles.

Saturday night, Murray found success as the Racers took a 5-4 match over Illinois State.

Purcell won at number one, Westfall at two, Berthiaume at four and Sam Pruitt at five. Again, Purcell-Leeper won at the number two doubles, to complete a 4-0 road trip.

The Racers are now 3-8 on the season and will host Middle Tennessee Wednesday afternoon.

Friday, Murray is at UK while Saturday, the Racers are at Western before going to Memphis State Sunday.

after the match. Connors has won $760,000 in Las Vegas since the streak began in 1975.

"There were seven service breaks in the final set, but the 30-year-old Nastase finally held his service in the 12th game."

Halicki Beats Dodgers Fifth Consecutive Time

By FRANK BROWN
 AP Sports Writer

Rookie San Francisco Manager Joe Altobelli wouldn't have had to wait so long for his first major league victory if he had remembered Ed Halicki's mysterious powers over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The 6-foot-7 Halicki beat Los Angeles for the fifth straight time Sunday, surrendering 11 hits but surviving for an 8-4 triumph over the Dodgers. That gave the Giants and Altobelli their first victory of the National League baseball campaign after two season-opening losses.

"I'm happy to get that first one off my back," said Altobelli, who replaced Bill Rigney at the conclusion of last season. "That first win feels awfully good."

He should have expected it, since the game was played at Los Angeles, where Halicki did not allow a run in three shutout appearances during the 1976 season.

"I can't really explain it," said the towering right-hander. "I just like pitching here. The mound is good, and so is the atmosphere."

"I like beating the Dodgers. I feel like the king of the hill," Darrell Evans provided the power, driving in three runs on three hits.

Braves 6, Astros 0
 Right-hander Dick Ruthven scattered seven hits and Rowland Office drove in two runs as Atlanta beat Houston in a game spiced by two bench-clearing incidents.

Padres 12, Reds 4
 Left-hander Bob Shirley made his major league debut by striking out 11 and giving up just four hits to the World Champion Reds.

The Reds were out of 15-5.

Bradford, who tied his personal best with the 6-11 in the high jump, had a 172-9 for fourth in the javelin while Simmons was fourth in the discus with a 145-4. Both distances were personal bests.

The 440-relay team and the mile-relay team both took third places for Murray. Also getting thirds were Stanford "Little Joe" Patrick with a personal best of 10.5 in the 100-

Cornell Pleased With Track Team's Effort

Brewer, Warren Star For Racers

By MIKE BRANDON
 Ledger & Times Sports Editor

It's not often a team finishes last and the coach is pleased about the performance.

But such was the case Saturday as Murray State placed fourth in a quadrangular meet at Stewart Stadium.

Earlier in the week, Racer coach Bill Cornell predicted the following outcome: Middle Tennessee 64, Austin Peay 51, Western Kentucky 50 and Murray State 18.

Cornell predicted the right order of finish. But he underestimated his own team.

Giving their best performance of the season, the Racers doubled what Cornell had predicted.

The actual results Saturday were Middle 54 1/2, Austin Peay 50, Western Kentucky 44 1/2 and Murray 36.

"I'm really elated about our performance," Cornell said.

"It doesn't look nearly as dark as it did a week or two ago," he added.

A week ago, it was indeed dark as Cornell watched his Racers score just 9 1/2 points in a triangular meet at Bowling Green with Western and powerful SIU.

And about the only bright spot in that meet was the 1500-meter performance of junior Englishman Martyn Brewer. In that meet at Western, Brewer defeated Olympian Tony Stainings in the 1500-meter run, or the metric mile as it is called.

Stainings came to Murray Saturday with revenge in mind. But he didn't get it as again, Brewer smoked the field.

Taking the lead early in the race and setting his own pace, Brewer roared to any easy win, finishing first in 3:45.7.

That time, a personal best in the event, is equal to a 4:03.8 mile.

"I don't like to go out and set the pace myself because I never know if I'm going too fast or too slow," Brewer said.

"I usually like to let someone else go out. Stainings never goes after the lead and after the first lap, I felt that I would have to go out and set my own pace.

"If I'd had someone pacing me, I believe I could have run a 3:42, which would be equal to a four-minute mile," Brewer added.

Murray took three of the four places in the event.

Tony Keener, a freshman walk-on, was second with a personal best of 3:49.6 which is equal to a 4:07.2 mile. In fourth was freshman Richard Charleston with a personal best of 3:51.4, which was equal to a 4:09.4 mile.

Stainings never placed in the event. Second went to Gary Perry of Middle who finished 1.5 seconds behind Brewer.

Murray's other win came by freshman Englishman Dave Warren. Warren coasted to a first place win in the 800-meters with a personal best time of 1:50.3 which is equal to an 880-yard time of 1:51.0.

After those two performances, it was a matter of a point here and a point there for the Racers.

In the field events, Murray got a pair of seconds.

Bill Bradford went out at 6-11 after missing 7-1 three times in the high jump. Chuck Durant of Western won at 6-11 on fewer misses.

In the shotput, Stan Simmons of the Racers was second with 52-6. Bradford and Simmons both managed fourth places in other field events.

The only other second for the Racers came in the 400-meter run where Norman Simms had a personal best of 47.6.

and Norman Simms with a personal best of 21.7 in the 200-meters.

Also getting a third place was Brian Rutter who recorded a 14:47.8 in the 5000-meter run. Fourth places included Patrick with a

Racer Golfers Take Eighth In Tourney

The Murray State golf team placed eighth over the weekend at the Southern Junior-Senior Intercollegiate Golf Tournament at the Stillwaters Resort in Dadeville, Ala.

Auburn won the team title with a 54-hole total of 1093 while Troy State was six strokes back at 1099. Other team scores included Georgia Southern 1105, Middle Tennessee 1109, Kentucky 1127, Tennessee 1137, Mississippi 1149, Murray State 1154, Columbus College 1157, Georgia Tech 1158 and Eastern Kentucky 1158.

Buddy Gardner of Auburn won the individual title with a six-under par 210.

For Murray, Kevin Klier shot a 223 on rounds of 75-74-74 while Doug Miller had a 225 on rounds of 77-74-74.

Other Murray scores were: Larry Patton 75-76 for 152, Norm Vacovsky 77-79-80 for 236, Bobby Cronin 79-83-80 for 242 and Brian McDonald 82-86-85 for 253.

FIRST RECRUIT—David Lowry, a standout guard from Henderson County, is the first Murray State basketball recruit. Watching him sign the OVC letter of intent are Henderson County coach Tom Cummings and Mrs. Anne Lowry.

David Lowry First Racer Cage Recruit

David Lowry, a 5-11 guard who averaged 26 points and 10 assists per game for Henderson County High School last season, has accepted a basketball scholarship to Murray State University, coach Fred Overton announced today.

Lowry made All-District and All-Regional Teams at Henderson County and was named honorable mention All-State. A former teammate, Darrell Willett, was a freshman at Murray last season. "We're really happy David decided to play his college basketball at Murray," Overton said. "And we think he has the talent to be a fine Ohio Valley Conference guard, Overton added.

Watson Gets Two-Stroke Win In Masters Tourney

By TOM BRETTEINGEN
AP Sports Writer

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Tom Watson felt his throat tightening up.

This was not, however, the breath-quicken, muscle-deadening sensation that is commonly referred to as "choking."

This was simply the wave of emotion that swept Watson after winning the Masters golf tournament Sunday in a shoot-the-lights-out showdown with Jack Nicklaus.

Watson fired a five-under-par 67 for a 276 total that held off Nicklaus and six other players who all moved within two shots of the lead at some time during the decisive round.

Nicklaus, starting three shots back, closed with a 66 — best round of the tournament — for 278. He appeared on the verge of muscling the title away from the others, but a bogey on No. 18 while Watson snaked in a 20-foot birdie putt on 17 settled that.

"I hadn't planned on somebody making a birdie," a dejected Nicklaus said later.

"I felt like it was one of those days where no matter how much you did right, somebody else was doing better. The only thing was, he started with a head-start."

Others who challenged but fell back were Rick Massengale, 70-280; Tom Kite, 67-280; Hale Irwin, 68-282; Ben Crenshaw, 76-285; Jim Colbert, 74-286, and Rod Funseth, 73-286.

It is significant that Watson's victory came in the world's most prestigious golf tournament and in a duel with a man considered the world's finest golfer.

Fairly or not, Watson had been labeled a choker. The label doesn't fit anymore. He proved himself under the most stifling pressure that professional golf has to offer.

First, he had to survive a bad drive and poor second shot on the first hole to sink a testing five-foot putt for par. Then he had to keep pace with his playing partner, Massengale, with a 32 on the front side that included four birdies. Finally, after he carded his only bogey on No. 14 and fell into a tie with Nicklaus, he had to go one-on-one with the five-time Masters winner down the stretch. He came out on top.

Watson got $40,000, pushing his tour-leading prize money total for the year to $175,185.

Nicklaus finished second here for the third time, collecting $30,000.

Webster County, Lakers Split Pair Of Contests

The Calloway County Lakers split a twinbill Saturday afternoon at the city park with Webster County.

In the first contest, Webster County took an 8-3 win over Calloway while in the second game, the Lakers outslugged their guests 12-7.

Webster County opened the afternoon on a rather unusual note by hitting back to back homers in the first inning of the opening game.

Chris Knight, who slammed a homer in a 4-3 loss to Murray High Friday, knocked one 330 feet for a solo roundtripper and the next man up, Steve Catlett, belted a solo shot, giving Webster County a 2-0 lead.

Webster County added a run to make it 3-0 in the top of the second but in the home half of the inning, the Lakers scored as starting pitcher Ronnie Gibson doubled, stole third and scored on a fielder's choice, making it 3-1.

Webster County put it away with three more in the fourth and two in the sixth to make it an 8-1 contest. The Lakers put two more on the board in the home half of the seventh as Kenneth McCuiston doubled for two RBIs.

Gibson worked five complete innings and was charged with six runs, four of which were earned. He gave way to Fred Kemp who allowed two runs, one of which was earned, in the final two frames.

Danny Lykins went the distance for Webster County and chalked up six strikeouts while walking six. He gave up just two hits to the Lakers and only one of the three Calloway runs was earned.

In the second game, Kenneth McCuiston opened the Laker first with a solo homer, staking Calloway righthander Tommy Chavis to a lead he never relinquished.

Then in the second, the Lakers erupted for six runs. Chavis ripped a bases-loaded single that drove in a pair while Terry Gibson and Steve Barnett each had two-run singles in the frame.

Webster County made it 7-3 by using a walk and four consecutive singles for three runs in the third. But in the last of the fourth, the Lakers iced the win with four runs.

Ricky Garland opened the fourth with a walk and Terry Butler followed with a single. Both runners stole and then Ronnie Gibson got an infield Catching one team is hard enough. But catching two teams may be all but impossible.

That's the situation the Murray State Thoroughbreds find themselves in after dropping three of four games to Austin Peay this weekend.

After losing two at home Friday, the 'Breds did manage to gain a split at Clarksville Saturday. And it took a four-run rally in the top of the seventh in the last game to even manage a split!

While Murray and The Peay were splitting a pair, Middle Tennessee swept a pair of games in Murfreesboro from Western. That leaves Austin Peay and Middle with 5-2 marks in the western division of the league. Murray is two games back at 3-4 while Western brings up the cellar with a 1-6 mark.

Middle has the schedule advantage. They have two at home with both 'Peay and Murray and need only to play lowly Western on the road.

Austin Peay must play two at Western and two at Middle while their only remaining home game is a single contest with Western.

Murray has two at home with Western, two at Middle and one at Western. In the first game Saturday, the 'Breds beat themselves by committing four errors.

Austin Peay broke up a scoreless pitching duel by getting a run in the fifth off Murray southpaw Andy Rice. Mike McGill led off with a single and was sacrificed to second by freshman outfielder Chris Vinyard.

After Danny Reece had fled to Greg Tooley in left for the second out, Austin Peay got new life as Wendell Stamps reached on an error by Murray State shortstop Stan Giesler.

The Governors made good of the second chance as Robbie Fant executed the suicide squeeze to perfection, reaching base and sending in McGill with the first run of the game.

Then in the last of the sixth, Austin Peay put it away with five more runs, again, taking advantage of Murray errors. Doug Earle reached base when Murray first baseman Don Walker dropped a pop fly.

After Pat Dennis had walked, Tom Schoettel reached base on an error by Giesler and that left the bases full for Tom Finely who blasted a grand slam homerun. After one man had been retired, Danny Reece followed with a solo shot and it was 6-0.

Murray managed just four hits off Joe Briley who fanned four and walked two in throwing the shutout. Rice, who pitched well enough to win, gave up just four hits but the errors were the deathblow.

END OF REGULAR SEASON

Murray State Splits Pair At Austin Peay, 3-4 In League

Rice drops to 3-1 on the season.

In the nightcap, Robin Courtney's RBI double in the fourth gave Murray righthander Mark Wezet a 1-0 lead. But in the bottom of the fifth, the Governors scored a pair to go up 2-1.

With one out, Schoettel reached on a walk and after Wendell Stamps had fled out, Robbie Fant doubled for an RBI. The Peay took the lead when Joey Moore followed with a run-scoring single.

Murray tied the game with a run in the sixth.

Terry Brown opened with a walk and Greg Tooley reached on an error. After Walker popped to second, Giesler drove in a run with a groundout.

In the seventh, the 'Breds put four on the board to wrap up the win.

Bill Wagoner led off the inning by tapping back to the pitcher before Ted Poe hit a check swing double. Dave Barrett, brother of former Murray star Steve Barrett, then singled to put men on at the corners.

Tom Fehn singled to right to score Bruce Austin, who was running for Poe. Then Terry Brown came through with a single to load the sacks.

Tooley hit into a force at second, sending in a run to make it 4-2. With Don Walker at the plate and Fehn on third, the 'Breds scored another run when the Austin Peay catcher tried for a pickoff attempt at third and threw the ball into leftfield. Then Walker followed with an RBI single and it was 6-2.

Wezet, now 2-1 on the season, set the side down in the seventh. The 'Breds are now 21-7 on the season and will host Arkansas State for a pair today and Memphis State for a twinbill Wednesday.

Friday, Murray will play a single game at Reagan Field with Louisville before closing the home season with a league twinbill Saturday with Western Kentucky.

Women Umpires?

SEATTLE (AP) — The American League supervisor for umpires says "we may see the day" of the woman umpire.

"Can't you hear it?" said Dick Butler, "Kill the umpress."

But one thing you will not see "at least not during my lifetime," is instant-replay cameras used to back up umpires, said Butler.

"Nine times out of 10 — make that 99 percent — the umpires are right," said Butler. "You can't have enough cameras to cover all of the possible angles."

SHERIFF'S SALE

I will on Monday, April 25, 1977 at 10:00 A. M. at the Court House door at Murray, Calloway County, Kentucky expose to public sale to the highest bidder the following delinquent tax claims upon which a real estate assessment appears (the amount includes the tax, penalty, Sheriff's service fee and advertising cost). The claims sold become a lien upon the property described upon the face of the tax bill and are subject to 12 per cent interest per annum.

Easter...

Minnelli and other seldom-seen Western performers, and movie theaters had special late showings of popular French, Japanese and American films.

The rival factions of the Irish Republican Army held marches in both Dublin, capital of the Irish republic, and Belfast, the capital of Northern Ireland, to commemorate the 1916 Easter uprising. Meanwhile, the IRA's Official wing accused the Provisionals of planting a bomb that killed a 10-year-old Belfast boy and several hours later killing his uncle in a street ambush. The Provisionals denied responsibility for the bombing and refused to comment on the shooting.

Among Murray High School students attending the Kentucky High School Speech tournament held recently at the University of Kentucky were Jenny Francis, left, and Debbie Geurin, both of Murray.

John Brinkley, left, Hazel, and James Bibb, Rt. 2, Murray, were among Calloway County High School students attending the Kentucky High School Speech tournament held recently at the University of Kentucky.

Kenton Tickets To Be On Sale At The Door

Tickets for the concert by the Stan Kenton Orchestra at Murray State University on Tuesday evening will be available at the door prior to the program.

Scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. in Lovett Auditorium, the concert by the 19-piece orchestra will include the variety of music that has helped to earn Kenton his reputation as one of the biggest names in music over the past 35 years.

"His orchestra will perform in musical styles ranging from popular and dance to progressive jazz to contemporary innovations, a reflection of Kenton's belief that music must change with the times."

The concert is sponsored by the Gamma Delta chapter of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia music fraternity on the campus.

Ticket prices are $3.50 for adults, $2.50 for college students, and $2.50 each for high school students in groups of 12 or more.

Pardon Us...

Due to an editing error, a heading was misleading on a Murray University story Saturday. The headline, concerning a lecture this week, should have read Jerry Rothman lectures cancelled. Rothman, had been scheduled to lecture tonight here and tomorrow at Ft. Campbell.

Due to a reporting error, Joshua Tabers, Sr. was listed as a magisterial candidate in the wrong district recently. Tabers is running for the office of magistrate in District Four.
